"The necessity for prompt and energetic action for the vindication of the rights of the English in respect to the valley of the Ohio and Allegheny became apparent to Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia shortly after Celeron's expedition in the summer of 1749. The French energetically seeking to ingratiate themselves with the Indians of this region, Governor Dinwiddie, in the summer of 1753, sent Captain William Trent to expostulate with the French commander on the Ohio for his invasion of this territory. Captain Trent did not have the qualities necessary for a fit performance of these duties. He came to the forks of the Ohio (Pittsburgh) and then proceeded to the Indian town of Piqua, in Ohio, where Christopher Gist and George Croghan had been well received sometime before. Discovering that the France flag waved there and that the aspect of things on the frontier was more threatening than he had anticipated, Trent abandoned his purpose and returned to Virginia.

Governor Dinwiddie then resolved upon the appointment of Captain Trent's successor, but it was a difficult task to find a person of requisite moral and physical capacity for so responsible and dangerous an enterprise. The position was offered to several Virginians, by all of whom it was declined, when Dinwiddie received an intimation that it would be accepted by George Washington, then a youth of Twenty-one years. A constant patriot, he did not shrink from any honorable service, however dangerous, which he could render his country. He therefore accepted the appointment and, on the very day he received his commission, October 31, 1753, he started on his dangerous journey of more than five hundred miles through the wilderness to deliver to St. Pierre, commander of the French forces on the headwaters of the Allegheny, the protest of Governor Dinwiddie against the encroachments of the French on territory claimed by the English.

On November 1, Washington arrived at Fredericksburg ... then proceeded to Alexandria to Winchester ... and from there to Will's Creek (Cumberland, Maryland) at which place they arrived on November 14.

At Will's Creek, Washington engaged Christopher Gist, as he says in his journal, "to pilot us out", Gist was a surveyor and during the years 1750 and 1751, had made the journey through the Ohio Valley, exploring the region as the agent of the Ohio Company. With only one companion on this journey Gist preceeded through the wilderness to the Allegheny River, arriving at the same at Shannopin Town, named for the Delaware chief, Shannopin, only a few miles above the mouth of the Monongahela. Swimming the Allegheny at this place, he and his companion then proceeded to what is now the central part of Ohio, thence back to Virginia through the heart of Kentucky, many years before Daniel Boone penetrated its wilderness. It is thus seen that Christopher Gist was well fitted by experience in the wilderness "to pilot" Washington through the forests to the French forts.

He and his companions left Will's Creek on November 15, and on November 22 arrived at the cabin of John Frazer, an Indian trader, at the mouth of Turtle Creek. Frazer had been driven away from Venango by the French in the summer of 1753. From Frazer's Washington and Gist went overland to Shannopin's Town. From Shannopin's Town, they proceeded to the mouth of the Monongahela, where they met their baggage which had been brought down the Monongahela from Frazer's by the others of Washington's party.

.....On December 4, the entire party arrived at Venango, which Washington described in his journal as "an old Indian town, situated at the south of the French Creek, and Ohio, and lies north about sixty miles from Logstown, but more than seventy miles by the way we were obliged to go.

At Venango, they found the French colors hoisted on the trading house from which the French had driven the trader John Frazer. Washington immediately went to this house and inquired where the commander resided Washington remained at Venango until December 7. The journey up French Creek was very difficult, by reason of rains, mires and swamps. It was impossible to cross the creek, either by fording or rafting, the water was so high and rapid.

On December 12, Washington delivered to St. Pierre, the commander of Fort Le Boeuf, the protest of Governor Dinwiddie. Thus protested demanded that the French depart from the disputed region. St. Pierre's reply was that he would transmit Governor Dinwiddie's protest to Marquis Duquesne, Governor of Canada St. Pierre like the French officers at Venango treated Washington with courtesy, but did all in their power to alienate Tanacharison and the other Indians from the English interests. He gave them liquor and presents.

Having received St. Pierre's reply, Washington and his companions left Fort LeBoeuf on December 16, and arrived at Venango on December 22, After Washington had journeyed three days on the way south, the horses became weak, feeble and almost unable to travel. accordingly, on December 26, Washington and Gist proceeded ahead on foot, leaving the rest of the party to follow by easy stages with Van Broom in charge of the horses and baggage.

.....Let Washington relate the incident... as he wrote..in his Journal. The day following December 27, just after we had passed a place called Murdering Town (where we intended to quit the path) and steer across the country to Shannopin's Town, we fell in with a party of French Indians, who had laid in wait for us. One of them had fired at Mr. Gist or me, not fifteen steps off, but fortunately missed. We took this fellow into custody, and kept him until about nine o'clock at night, then let him go, and walked all the remaining part of the night, without making any stop, that we might get the start so far as to be out of reach of their pursuit the next day, since we were assured they would follow our track as soon as it was light. The next day we continued traveling until it was quite dark, and got on the Allegheny river about two miles above Shannopin.

Christopher Gist, in his journal described the attack on Washington in more detail. He says that he and Washington met this Indian at Murdering Town, and believed that they had seen him at Venango. The Indian called Gist by his Indian name and pretended to be friendly. After some conversation with the Indian, Washington and Gist asked him to accompany them to Shannopin Town. The Indian seemed very glad to accompany them. He led the way from Murdering Town, but seemed to take a course too much to the north-east, which caused both Washington and Gist to mistrust him.

Finally when they came to a snow-covered meadow, the Indian suddenly turned and fired at Washington. He was immediately seized and disarmed before he could reload his rifle. Gist wanted to kill him on the spot, but Washington would not permit him to do so. After he was kept in custody until late in the evening, they let him go. Gist said: He was glad to get away. I followed him and listened until he was fairly out of the way, and then we set out about half a mile, when we made a fire, set our compass, and fixed our course, and traveled all night.

.... Students of the life of Washington are familiar with the fact that, in crossing the Allegheny on the journey back to Virginia, Washington was almost drowned in the icy waters. He and Gist were crossing the stream on a raft which they had made. Washington thrust out his pole to propel the raft, but it was caught between blocks of ice with such force as to throw him into the icy water. Swimming to and island near the Washington Crossing Bridge in the city of Pittsburgh Washington almost froze to death during the terrible night. This incident took place on December 29.

On December 30, Washington and Gist arrived at John Frazer's cabin at Turtle Creek....

On January 2, 1754, Washington and Gist arrived at the latter's plantation near Mount Proddock, Fayette County, where some Virginian families had settled at least as early as the spring of 1753. On January 6, they arrived at Wills Creek. On the same day they met seventeen horses loaded with materials and stores for a fort at the Forks of the Ohio, and the day after some families going out to settle. Washington arrived at Williamsburg then the capital of Virginia, on January 16, and delivered St. Pierre's reply.

.....Opening of the French and Indian War, 1754... On May 11, Washington sent out a scouting party from the Little Crossing, in command of Captain Stephen and Ensign Peroynie, with instructions to advance along the line of march as far as Gist Plantation (Mount Braddock, Fayette County) in an effort to discover scouting parties of the French.

Christopher Gist visited Washington's camp at the Great Meadows early on the morning of May 27, coming from the plantation at Mount Braddock thirteen miles distant, and reported that on May 26, M. LaForce with fifty French soldiers had been at his plantation the day before, and that on his way to Washington's camp, he had seen the tracks of the same party only five miles from the encampment at the Great Meadows....

p. 171-172

At least as early as the spring of 1753, this noted pathfinder had made a settlement of some Virginia families in the vicinity of what is now Mount Braddock, Fayette County. He served faithfully in Braddock's campaign of 1755, and with his sons, Nathaniel and Thomas was in the terrible defeat of the haughty British general on the banks of the Monongahela. After Braddock's defeat, he raised a company of scouts in Virginia and Maryland and rendered service to the harried frontier, being then called Captain Gist. In 1756 he was sent to the Carolinas to enlist the Cherokee Indians in the British service in the French and Indian War.

In 1757, he became deputy Indian agent in the South, a position for which said Washington, I know no one so well qualified. He has had extensive dealings with the Indians, is in great esteem among them, well acquainted with their manners and customs, indefatigable and patient. According to most authorities, he died of smallpox in the summer of 1759 in either South Carolina or Georgia.

This trusted friend of Washington deserves to be remembered for all times. He was one of the earliest Anglo-Saxon explorers of the vast region comprising the states of Ohio, and Kentucky. Concerning this region he reported to the Ohio Company: "Nothing is wanted but cultivation to make this a most delightful country."

(For an account of Christopher Gist's explorations for the Ohio Company the reader is referred to William M. Darlington's "Christopher Gist's Journals".)

WILL OF THOMAS GIST

THOMAS GIST, was a son of CHRISTOPHER GIST and SARAH HOWARD GIST.

IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN: I, Thomas Gist, of Bedford County, in the province of Pennsylvania, being at this time in perfect health of body and sound of memory but as I am bound for the Mississippi which appears to be a long voyage, and as all men mortal and God only know whether I may be permitted to return to settle my worldly business or not, I think proper to make this my last, will and Testament, Vis:

I resign my soul into the hands of God from whom I received it whenever he shall be pleased to take it.

Secondly: I resign my body to the earth in sure and certain hope of the Resurrection to eternal life through our Lord Jesus Christ who shall change our vile body that it may be like unto his glorious body, according to the mighty working whereby He is able to subdue all things to Himself.

THIRDLY: I will and require my lands on Hingo Creek and the waters of Shiretee may be sold in order to pay off my just debts and in case that should be found insufficient for the discharge thereof, I will and require that my Executors shall also sell to the best advantage a tract or parcel of land adjoining the plantation on which I now live, it being the same tract or parcel of land which I bought of my brother, Richard Gist, or at the election of the said Executors if they should find it not convenient to rent any part of my lands for the payment of my said just debts, and also for my said Executors to settle all my accounts and receive all debts due to me.

FOURTHLY: I will unto my loving sister Ann Gist the one-half part of my whole estate real and personal, but as my negro man named Jason was given me by my father and I would not have him sold, I do desire that he may be appraised and my said sister Anne to take him in her half part at the appraisement. I make her a present of half a dozen silver spoons which was also my Fathers over and above her half-part.

FIFTHLY: I do will unto my loving daughter, Elizabeth Johnston, the other one-half part of my whole estate, real and personal, the said silver spoons excepted and in case my sister Ann Gist should die without heirs of her body lawfully begotten, then and in such case I will her half-part unto my daughter Elizabeth Johnston excepted the negro Jason, and the silver spoons which I give unto my brother, Nathaniel Gist, or his heirs lawfully begotten, and in case he and his heirs should die before her, I give the said negro and spoons to my brother, Richard Gist, or his heirs lawfully begotten. And in case he and his heirs die before my sister Anne, then to my said daughter Elizabeth Johnston and in case my said daughter should die before she comes of age, or without heirs or an heir lawfully begotten of her body in such case I will her whole half-part unto my said sister Ann Gist, and in case she die without heirs or an heir lawfully begotten of her body, I will my whole estate to be divided between my two brothers, two-thirds to my brother Nathaniel Gist or his heirs lawfully begotten, and the other one-third to my brother Richard Gist or his heirs lawfully begotten, and in case all the persons before mentioned should die without leaving any heirs lawfully begotten, then I will my whole estate to be divided between my sister Violette Cromwell's four children or their heirs lawfully begotten.

I ALSO will that my daughter Elizabeth Johnston be brought up in the persuasion of the Church of England, genteel and with reasonable education, and my sister Ann have the profit or income of her half-part of the estate for her care and trouble of her til she be the age of fifteen years, and I do constitute and appoint Mordecai Gist of Baltimore, Mercht. and George Dawson of Bedford County in the province of Pennsylvania, yeoman, guardians to my daughter Elizabeth Johnston, and also I do appoint the said Mordecai Gist and George Dawson my Executors for this my last will and testament.

GIVEN under my hand this -- day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-two.

Tho. Gist

December 25, 1786. Nathaniel Gist enters a caveat against the probate of the foregoing writing purporting to be the last will and testament of Thomas Gist, deceased, and prays that it may not be received as such by the Register of Wills in and for the County of Fayette until as well the parties to the said will as the heirs-at-law are cited and have notice of the said writing, and that he, the said Nathaniel may be heard thereupon a day to be fixed and appointed according to the law in such case made and provided.

Thomas Kent was born in County Derry, Ireland, March 1, 1748. He emigrated to Cecil County, Maryland and from there enlisted in the Revolutionary Army, July 1, 1776. He served as a private in Capt. Maxwell's Md. Co. of the Flying Camp for nine months. Discharged April 1, 1777 according to Revolutionary War Records, Washington, D.C. allowed a pension on application executed September 10, 1832, while a resident of Franklin Township, Greene County, Penna., as recorded in Section A15 23741.

The Will of Thomas Kent is on record at Greene County Court House, Register and Recorders Office Will Book, Vol. 2 P. 48 put on record March 30, 1835.

Thomas Kent was married to Ann Ralston in 1777. They had fourteen children. The family Bible covered with calf hide is now owned by Miss Ada Shriver, a descendent of Thomas Kent. It contains a very complete family record. Ann Ralston seems to have come from east of the mountains. Thomas and Ann were buried in the Old East Waynesburg Cemetery in the north-east corner until Sept. 1934 when they were moved to Memorial Park. The headstone was standing and inscriptions could be read. "In memory of Thomas Kent who departed this life Jan. 8, 1835 aged 88 years". "In memory of Ann Kent, consort of Thomas Kent, who departed this life April 27, 1835, aged 76 years". These markers were placed in the new graves. Thomas Kent seems to have been a quaint character and many stories are told about him. It is said that his hair was fiery red and so was his temper and the words "Kent Spunk" have become a by-word among his descendants. It is said that one lawsuit with a neighbor over a line fence, lasted twenty years.

The Bates' History of Greene County, Thomas Smith, Thomas Kent, Arthur Inghram, James Porter and Bill Lafferty raised a crop of corn on the farm owned by Uriah and Josiah Inghram on Smith Creek before the Revolutionary War by Corn Rights established by Virginia 1779 if raised crop before Jan. 1, 1778 entitled to farm not exceeding 400 acres.

The Indians seemed to admire Thomas Kent's red hair for they wanted to scalp lock and many were the tricks to lure him from home without his gun. A favorite trick was to remove the bell from his cow and hide in bushes and ring it. This never fooled him for he could tell by the way the bell sounded it was not on a cow.

The ruins of the old three story log house was still standing 1930 on the farm once owned by Thomas Kent. The original homestead contained 1500 acres and comprised a large part of Smith Creek.

THOMAS SLATER married Sarah (Eleanor Eden, dau of James Eden)

In the year 1771, Thomas Slater settled on Ten Mile Creek, in what was then Monongalia Co. Va., and Francis Peyton, Philip Pendleton and Joseph Holmes the commissioners appointed to adjust claims of unpatented land in the counties of Monongalia, Yohagenia and Ohio, certified Thomas Slater was entitled to 395 acres of land to include his settlement.

There is an legend that Thomas Slater purchased a tract of 400 acres from a party who had made a thornhawk improvement for a two year old heifer and a flint lock rifle and other trifling articles. The legal title to this land was procured by an application to the land office, which was then located at Lancaster, Pa. where upon a warrant, dated the 5th day of June 1787, was granted to him, and later a return survey was made, upon which a patent was issued Mar. 7, 1789. The above draught of land on the south fork of Ten Mile Creek called Eden, containing 395 acres Survey Mar. 1785. Thomas Slater on a Va. certificate. Thomas Slater sold the above 395 acres, called Eden to the trustees of Greene Co., Oct. 28, 1796 for $2376. Deed of purchase of Waynesburg Trustees deed dated Oct. 28, 1796 bought a tract of land called "Eden" from Thomas Slater and Eleanor, his wife, containing 153-1/2 acres at the cost of $2376. Mr. Slater's cabin is said to have been the first one built in this vicinity. It stood on a knoll on the western side of the Smith Creek Road. In the early days savage tribes of Delaware Indians concealed themselves on Duvall's Hill on the south of Ten Mile and shot their arrows at the lonely settlers. Thomas Slater, in early years of his settlement here was on terms of intimacy with the Indians and was accustomed to receive and entertain them in the most friendly manner, pitching quoits, running, leaping, shooting at mark with them. But when massacres became frequent he would flee to Jackson Fort. On one occasion he forgot his gun recollecting it was near a spring near Mrs. Alice Taylor's lot on Green Street he called his girls Sallie and Nellie, then 10 and 15 years old to run back for it. The gun was secured, the girls said they flew.

Sarah Slater married Israel White on the occasion of one of these Indian scares when the families of the surrounding country was assembled, who seized the occasion of fright for a genuine merry making. Eleanor or Nellie married Mr. Pipes. Thomas Slater died Jan. 24, 1815, aged 75 years, and Eleanor his wife died May 10, 1813 aged 67 yrs. They are buried in the Hookstown Cemetery in Franklin Township, new Waynesburg. Date from Bates History.
